Peak summer is back, and with it, a wealth of shows, events, and activities to partake in and attend—in real life! While plenty of virtual programming still exists for those less excited about venturing out—take, for example, the annual A Capitol Fourth concert and the Macy's fireworks, which will both be broadcast nationwide on July 4—it's safe to say that live programming is finally the norm once more. Catch American Ballet Theater performing at locations across America, celebrate the return of Broadway by attending Bruce Springsteen's eponymous revival show, or attend a Brooklyn art fair with masterpieces at every price point. Whatever you choose to do, remember to soak up every second.

7. RE: BICYCLING CURATOR-LED RIDES JULY 7, 14, 21

You know gallery hopping, but how about gallery cycling? If you prefer your art with a side of cardio, the curator of RE: BICYCLING—a show at New York's Susan Inglett Gallery featuring bike-themed works by some of the biggest names in modern and contemporary art like Claes Oldenburg and Coosje Van Bruggen; Nina Chanel Abney; and Sarah Sze—will lead rides departing from the gallery on Wednesdays at 10:30 a.m. ET.
