The Season In Art

"Each Ryan Wallace piece is a very thought-out, highly curated meditation fluctuating between angst and serenity. Through October 15, the Susan Inglett Gallery in Chelsea is showing his newest works, which are influenced by Jackson Pollock's drip paintings. His reflective, open-minded approach to his material reflects his interest in existential scientific questions. This is the second show at the gallery for the artist, who graduated from RISD and now lives and works in Brooklyn and East Hampton."
