

CULTURED

Here Are the 12 Must-See Exhibitions on View in New York's Galleries This Month

Giuliana Brida | December 9, 2024

The Boys Club

Where: Susan Inglett Gallery

When: Through January 25, 2025

Why It's Worth A Look: "The Boys Club" dismantles the glitzy machinery of mass media with a Pop art toolkit, peeling back the shiny veneer of sex, drugs, fame, and wealth to expose the power games underneath. Featuring a solid roster of artists—Nina Hartmann, Marilyn Minter, Troy Montes Michie, Natalie Ochoa, Erica Rutherford, Beverly Semmes, and Susan Weil—the show reclaims the personal from the public spectacle.

Know Before You Go: This isn't a nostalgic nod to Warhol's gloss; it's a full-throttle interrogation of how media feeds us fantasies while devouring our identities.